FACULTY OF HUMAN SCIENCES & SERVICE

In little over a quarter century of its existence, GITAM has carved for itself a distinct niche as a leading center of higher education in engineering, science, technology and management studies in this part of the country. Now that it has blossomed into a full-fledged university, we are keen on starting post graduate courses in Human Science with due focus on its applied aspects.

We believe in promoting philosophy as related to life rather than removed from it. Philosophy in a significant sense is more than interdisciplinary. It feeds itself on the facts ascertained by others. Its business is to convert information into knowledge and transform knowledge into wisdom. It is in this sense that GITAM hopes to advance philosophy as human science in close relation with other human sciences like psychology, sociology and social work.

There is a felt need to bring out Indian Philosophy out of its academic ivory tower and try out how it can be applied in various walks of life as applied human science. It is necessary to once more make philosophy connect with the challenges and issues that plague humankind today.

Applied psychology is envisaged to be a step towards that direction. Applied psychology is not supposed to be a mere exercise in academics; nor is it simply showing the relevance of the traditional ideas in contemporary times. It is supposed to be a vibrant field of study that is interdisciplinary, policy-driven, action-oriented and experimental in spirit.

The proposed PG course is relevant in today's world, in that, it is individually beneficial in terms of employability in related fields like Counseling Centers, Socially oriented NGOs, Schools, and Hospitals; and thus they serve a social cause in addition to enhancing individual employability.

The M. Phil course in Applied Philosophy is designed with twin objectives – as a fundamental course leading to obtaining a doctoral degree, while advancing knowledge in human science with its emphasis on research; and as a preparatory course for those students desirous of pursuing the Civil Services.

The M.Phil course in Gandhian Studies aims at undertaking appropriate research to translate Gandhian ideas into policy guidelines for peace and conflict resolution, educational reforms, reorganizing rural economy and to retrain rural leadership.

The Ph.D. courses in Applied Psychology and Applied Philosophy are full-time research oriented programmes leading to the award of Ph.D. degree
